

A Log Management (SIEM) Case Study

Leader in Cell Technology

The Challenge

The company had a comprehensive range of cyber security technologies to protect them, what they didn't have was visibility of the system.

Trying to produce the necessary reporting for any security issues or events was massively time consuming and open to human error.

They needed a much more efficient, automated system.

The Solution

After reviewing the company's cyber security posture, Softwerx concluded that they needed a single pane of glass view of their systems with a complete audit trail of any and all events.

The best solution for the job was AlienVault's unified security management platform.

„We've saved so much time with the system, IT are happy and so are the Directors.“

The Outcome

Since implementing the solution, a process that took far less time than expected, the company have been able to manage their cyber security environment with ease.

The log system makes reporting on any issues or providing compliance officers and auditors with a record is as simple as clicking a button. The overview of all the systems provides a complete record of all the cyber security measures in place and will highlight any gaps should they occur.
