

A Log Management (SIEM) Case Study

Timber Manufacturer

The Challenge

The company's parent was reviewing their security posture and their vendor and supply chain vulnerabilities. They insisted that the company put in place an SIEM solution but left them with little guidance as to where to start in doing so.

The company needed someone to help them find the right solution and implement it.

The Solution

Softwerx walked the company through a review of the marketplace, demonstrating the various capabilities and limitations of the software solutions.

The winning solution was AlienVault's unified security management platform, a single pane of glass interface with all your security systems with built in log management and reporting.

A blue rectangular box containing a quote in white, italicized text. The quote is: "Our IT team are happier, and our systems are more robust!"

Our IT team are happier, and our systems are more robust!

The Outcome

The parent company are more than satisfied with the new reporting and log management and the company have been able to review their whole security setup in a way they couldn't before.

As a result of the single pane of glass review they were able to review and improve their overall security posture.