A Vulnerability Management Case Study

Intellectual Property Law Firm

The Challenge

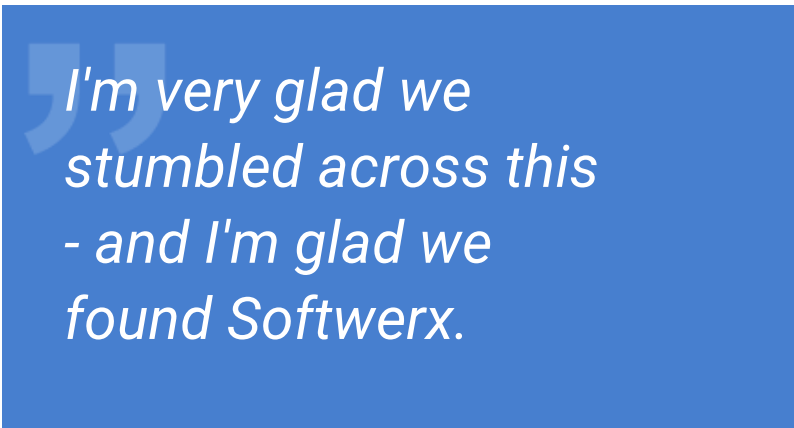

The firm was initially embarking on a project to build a new website. When they came to reviewing hosting options it became obvious that their current solution left significant holes in their security.

They needed a solution that would enable them to assess and rectify any security issues in their new website.

The Solution

Softwerx walked the firm through the scanning process and provided comprehensive, instant, and in some cases concerning results.

By using F-Secure's vulnerability management solution they were able to not only discover but also rectify the security issues on the new website.

I'm very glad we stumbled across this - and I'm glad we found Softwerx.

The Outcome

Whilst Softwerx could not help with the design of the website, they were able to make sure it was absolutely secure.

This has given their customers and prospects the confidence they needed to complete the forms to get in touch, as well as ensuring regulatory compliance.

Softwerx now run regular vulnerability scans on our entire online estate.
