

A Log Management Case Study

Global Producer of Lead & Lead-Alloys

The Challenge

As a business grows the attack surface grows meaning organizations need to record, monitor and act on all their data.

Simply holding this data brings significant security challenges, and the incomplete collection of log data prevents effective security monitoring and incident response.

As a global business, the company needed a SIEM and Log Management solution that could scale - but they needed it at an affordable entry price.

The Solution

The company undertook a significant research project, including looking at a lot of Tier 1 solutions in the Gartner Magic Quadrant.

AlienVault ticked every box for them including being scalable and affordable. Softwerx were able to support the company through both the research phase and the implementation.

Softwerx have been central to our decision-making; very knowledgeable, straightforward and practical advice.

The Outcome

The company now have everything a Tier 1 SIEM system would do but at a much more affordable price.

This means that they are protected across borders and can be confident that they meet regulatory requirements across all the geopolitical areas they serve.
